Dear Sara,

Thank you for your correspondence of 1 August, regarding your work on the Nature Premium proposal. You have kindly kept me up-to-date on this initiative and as you will know, have found ways to raise the matter on your behalf. As the minister responsible for this policy area, you will appreciate this relationship will now be different.

The department has informed me that officials are following the Nature Premium Campaign with great interest and understand that you have been in contact with one of the delivery partners, namely the Natural History Museum. As the new government takes stock of policies across the education sector, now would be a good time for you to meet with one of the National Education Nature Park's policy team to update them on your progress.

I would encourage you to please contact [REDACTED]@education.gov.uk with your availability so that a meeting can be arranged.

This will allow departmental policy officials to decide who would be best placed to attend the EFN webinar.

Thank you for writing to me and I hope the meeting with officials is a useful next step.

Yours sincerely,

Stephen Morgan MP
Minister for Early Education
